

Commitment to Excellence

FC Pittsburgh is committed to investing in the future of soccer right here in our great city. We feel that our youngest members need our best in giving them the skills to perform at the highest of levels - that is why our staff at the Academy includes college and high school coaches, and former professional soccer players. Each session will consist of age appropriate skills training, fun activities surrounding the use of the soccer ball to develop motor skills, and a love for the great game of soccer.

Our Mission Statement

Our mission is to provide a positive and constructive soccer environment that enables players to achieve their potential technically and tactically while playing at the highest levels of local, regional and national soccer competition.

Our goal at FC Pittsburgh is to provide the optimum environment of learning for each age level in our club.

Our coaches have a long history of working extensively in the player development stages of a young player's career. This is the time when a child is so impressionable that life-long habits are formed. Because of this, the youngest players need to be trained by the highest level of trainers; otherwise, the wrong skill habits could be imbedded into our future soccer players. To fix that habit later in life requires many, many hours of retraining muscle memory, and a large majority never achieves that correction.

FC Pittsburgh is committed to proper skill instruction, ensuring proper player development without future setbacks. Even if a young player is merely experimenting with soccer, that experiment should encompass excellent, precise and professional training.
